Dr. K.C. Brooks Assumes Wisconsin Veterinary Medical Association Presidency

MADISON – K.C. Brooks, DVM assumed the Presidency of the Wisconsin Veterinary Medical Association (WVMA) at the WVMA 97th Annual Convention on Friday, Oct. 12. He will serve as president for one year.

"I believe the role of the WVMA president is to encourage veterinarians to take an active role in advancing our profession in a positive manner. My hope would be for the WVMA to become even more effective now that there are an increasing number of legislative issues effecting veterinary medicine," Dr. Brooks states. Dr. Brooks also envisions the WVMA playing a part in stopping unlicensed practice of veterinary medicine in Wisconsin as well as providing resources to members to help them be successful in a changing business environment.

Dr. Brooks graduated with from the University of Wisconsin School of Veterinary Medicine in 1988. In 1995, he became a board certified diplomat of the ABVP in canine and feline practice and has maintained that certification. He currently is the managing partner and CEO of Lodi Veterinary Hospital in Lodi, Wis. Dr. Brooks practices mixed animal medicine and surgery there, while also leading a staff of 19 veterinarians more than 70 employees.

Within the WVMA, Dr. Brooks has served on the Executive Board and numerous committees including Veterinary Technician Advisory Committee, Public Education and Marketing Committee, Convention Committee, Grievance Committee, Public Health and Food Safety Committee, Executive Committee, Personnel Committee, and Legislative Committee.

Dr. Brooks and his wife, Cindy, currently reside in rural Lodi.

The mission of the Wisconsin Veterinary Medical Association is to advocate and promote veterinary medicine, while enriching animal and human health. Founded in 1915, The Wisconsin Veterinary Medical Association has nearly 2,300 members.
